The waves are gentle and white, washing onto a sandy beach in the foreground. The sky transitions from a deep orange near the horizon to a clear, light blue at the top.

Trying to cut back? Take a trip to Egypt

Ben Clatworthy Travel Correspondent

EasyJet Holidays has launched a “cost of living” package to Egypt which it claims is cheaper than household bills.

The 28-day trip to the Red Sea resort of Hurghada is priced from £650pp and includes flights and an all-inclusive stay at the five-star Stella Gardens Resort.

The tour operator says that the holiday, which departs in January, is 26 per cent cheaper than staying in Britain.

Research found that the average UK citizen will spend £877 on household bills – including rent, utility bills, food, wi-fi and travel – over the same period.

Matt Callaghan, easyJet Holidays’s customer and operations director, said: “With a growing number of Brits now searching online to see if they can escape abroad this winter, we knew we needed to try to provide consumers with a solution. We looked at everything an easyJet holidays package deal has to offer and have been able to confirm that yes, comparably, our new 28-day winter escape is cheaper than staying at home this year.”

Lynn Beattie, a personal finance expert, said: “For those who could viably rent their homes and work abroad, the new package deal by easyJet holidays poses a very attractive offer.”
